CRUFTS DOG SHOW 1987

Welcome to Earls Court for the 91st Crufts Dog Show, organised by the Kennel Club and the first time the Show has run over 4 days.

14,685 dogs have been entered for the Show, an increase of 2,856 over last year. As each dog has had to qualify for entry by winning certain classes at a Championship Show, this means that the entry consists of good, outstanding dogs of a great many breeds.

As the Any Variety—Not Separately Classified Classes had become so large, the Crufts Committee decided to have separate classes for certain breeds which have not yet been awarded Challenge Certificates, which it felt would be a popular decision with both dog exhibitors and the public.

Several new events are taking place—a Working Dog demonstration on Thursday, given by the Metropolitan Police and a Gundog demonstration on Saturday. The Kennel Club Junior Organisation, which now boasts a membership of 1300, is having its own Test of Obedience, Stakes Finals and an Agility Team to compete in the Crufts Agility Competition.

The Kennel Club Obedience Championships will be held on Thursday and Friday and the Inter-Regional Obedience Competition is being extended to two days this year, Saturday and Sunday.

The finals of the International Junior Handlers Competition will again take place at Crufts on Saturday and the very popular Agility Competition will be held in the Main Ring each evening—the finals being run on Sunday.

The climax of the Show will be the selection, by Mr R W B Pinches, of the Best in Show. The winner will be chosen from the 6 group winners in the Main Ring on Sunday.

Over 200 trade stands, covering a very wide range of products, add colour and bustle to the scene and a record number of breed clubs will also be attending. If any members of the public are contemplating buying a pedigree dog they will find the helpers manning the breed club stands delighted to assist.

THE ORGANISERS WOULD LIKE TO EXTEND BEST WISHES TO ALL THE MANY EXHIBITORS AND VISITORS FROM HOME AND OVERSEAS
FOR A HAPPY AND ENJOYABLE CRUFTS.

OVERSEAS VISITORS

Steward in charge of Overseas Lounge—Mrs C E Cartledge

There is a lounge for overseas visitors in the South Lounge.

There, people from overseas may leave and receive messages, obtain information on canine matters and meet their friends or business associates. The Kennel Club extends a warm welcome to visitors making use of this room.

It is regretted that it has become necessary to confine the issue of veterinary export certificates at the show to dogs which are actually entered in the show.

VETERINARY EXAMINATION CHARGE

A fee of £10, plus VAT, will be made for the examination of each dog for export health certification.

The fee should be paid to the veterinary surgeon at the time of examination.

Top breeders recommend it.

WE'RE IN THE MAIN RING . . .

. . . of animal welfare, where much of our time is spent showing dogs, in the hope of placing them in the right home with the right people. We don't charge hundreds, we don't have papers, and the only standard which matters to us—and the dogs—is temperament. We even look at your temperament because owning a dog is a twelve-year partnership, and not a seven day wonder. In retirement an animal can be a real companion

For more than 60 years, the Wood Green Animal Shelters have been devoted to the welfare of animals of all species.

Stray and unwanted animals and pets from bereaved families are taken in from all over the country and cared for. When they are considered fit and healthy, new homes are sought – providing care, companionship and security as only animals can. They are loyal, honest and reliable – real friends for retired people, especially the single retired.

The Wood Green Animal Shelter service is valuable, not only to the animals themselves, but also to their keepers. The Shelter deals with about thirty thousand animals a year, and visitors make regular calls to homes to check on progress.

Naturally, all this takes money, and the Shelter desperately needs funds – for the benefit of the animals in our care and for the benefit of ourselves – we human creatures who make organisations like ours necessary. Not only that, we can rest in the comfort that, when we are no longer able to look after them properly, there is a Shelter that can.

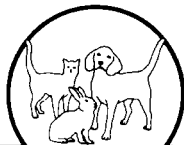

Should you need any further information about our work, help with a pet or indeed the companionship of a pet, please do not hesitate to contact the Wood Green Animal Shelter.

FOULING BY DOGS

Scoops and disposable bags are placed at strategic points on both levels. If your dog does foul the hall, outside of the exercise areas, please clear up after it.

Exhibitors are reminded that the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea Regulation lays down that:

"No person being in charge of a dog in any street or public place and having the dog on a lead shall allow or permit such dog to deposit its excrement on the public footway. Any person offending against this Bye-Law shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20"

The Kennel Club Show Regulation 18 lays down that:

"A person in charge of a dog which fouls any part of the Show open to the public is liable to a fine of £5."

The Stewards and Officials of Crufts have been instructed to make sure that both these Regulations are rigorously observed or the penalty will be enforced.

Sales of Dogs and Acceptance of Dogs for Exhibition

10.—All negotiations for the sale of dogs must be conducted between buyers and sellers. Exclusion of Dogs

11.—The Committee is empowered to exclude or to remove any dog which in the opinion of a Veterinary Surgeon of the Show is not in a fit state for exhibition, owing to disease, vice, or any other cause. Where a dog is thus excluded or ordered to be removed from the Show, the Committee will give the exhibitor every facility to examine and remove it.

Exhibits Only Allowed

12.—No animal other than a dog duly entered for the Show may be brought within the precincts of the Show during its continuance, except by prior permission of the General Committee of the Kennel Club.

The Show closes at 7.30 p.m. each day and at the close of the Show each day every exhibit must be removed from Earls Court. If any exhibit is left in the Show after its close on any day the full circumstances will be reported to the Committee of the Show. No dogs must be left in the Hall overnight.

Judges

In no circumstances can any person retain possession of any Crufts Trophy for a longer period than eleven months. All Trophies are presented on the understanding that they must be returned to Crufts Dog Show immediately in the event of disqualification of the dog. With the exception of trophies offered by Crufts Dog Show, no trophies are permitted to be displayed or presented in the judging rings.

Absence of Dogs from Benching

18.—No dog may be absent from its bench except for the purpose of being prepared for exhibition, judged, exercised, or by order of a Veterinary Surgeon or the Show Committee. After being prepared for exhibition the dog must be replaced on its bench. No dog shall be absent from its bench for the purpose of exercise for longer than fifteen minutes. Dogs may not be present at the ringside except when their breed is being judged. A person in charge of a dog which fouls any part of the Show open to the public is liable to a fine of £5.

Safety of Dogs and Property

19.—The Committee will be most anxious for the care and safety of the dogs brought for exhibition, but it must be distinctly understood by exhibitors and all other persons that the Committee will not be responsible for the loss, detention of, or damage to any dogs or other property, whether arising from accident, or other causes whatever, or from any act or omission of itself, its officers, agents, servants or others.

Transfer of Exhibits Between Classes

20.—A dog which is entered in an incorrect Class as regards its age may not be transferred to its correct Class, but must be transferred to the Open Class only. The Committee will not be responsible for Exhibitors missing their classes.

Admission to the Show

21.—The Show will be open to the public from 8.30 a.m. to 7.30 p.m. on Thursday, 12th February, Friday, 13th February, Saturday 14th February and Sunday, 15th February, 1987.

METROPOLITAN POLICE DEMONSTRATION TEAM AT CRUFTS 1987

The team before you today is selected from normal duty dogs which are on operational duty throughout the Metropolitan Police District by day and night. The team is under the charge of Inspector E. Hampson, assisted by Sergeant E. Driscoll who is also our commentator.

The Demonstration Team will commence the display with a sequence of obedience, illustrating the essential control which is fundamental to all dog training. They will then show, in a format, a series of exercises varying from the basic to the most advanced of all police dog training. As the display unfolds you will begin to appreciate the very high standard required of the dogs and the close affinity that exists between the dog and its handler.

The acting 'criminals' are, themselves, very experienced dog handlers, contributing in no small measure to the success of the demonstration, since they must be fit, agile and completely devoid of fear.

The esteem in which the team are held, and their popularity with the public, has in the past taken them as far afield as the Royal Show, Stoneleigh; the East of England Show, Peterborough; the Royal Air Force Sunset Ceremony, Uxbridge; the Aldershot Tattoo, the Royal Tournament and even on to the hallowed turf of Wembley.

The team represents 304 handlers and dogs within the section who account for the arrest of some 9000 law breakers each year. However, it is with pleasure that they demonstrate their versatility as entertainers for it affords them the unique opportunity to display their own pride in the police service and in particular, the Dog Section.

Description of the Bearded Collie

The Bearded Collie is one of the oldest of the British sheep and cattle dogs. He still makes an excellent worker when given the chance, but today the majority of Bearded Collies are kept as companions and the breed is noted for its devotion and intelligence and its gentleness with children. The ideal shoulder height of dogs is between 21 inches and 22 inches, and the bitches between 20 inches and 21 inches. The coat must be double, the undercoat soft and close, the outer hard, strong and shaggy, with the legs well covered all over. Colour black, all shades of grey, brown and sandy, with or without white Collie markings. There is little hair on the nose, affording a contrast to the "beard" which grows from each side of the muzzle. The Bearded Collie is very similar in conformation to the Scottish Working Collie, differing only in ear carriage and coat. He is an active dog, free from stumpiness, and although strongly made is not clumsy or cloddy. The sharp enquiring expression is a distinctive feature of the breed. [Copyright

Description of the Belgian Shepherd Dog (Groenendael)

This aristocratic and elegant breed is the best known of the varieties of the Belgian Shepherd Dog. In appearance, the breed is characterised by its heavy black coat and dense undercoat. The texture of the coat is medium coarse and it is straight, flat and moderately long over the surface of the body, shorter on the head, outside of the ears and the lower parts of the legs. The coat forms a distinctive ruff which frames a very expressive face, the ruff being more accentuated in the dog than the bitch. The ears are small, triangular and erect; the eyes are preferably dark brown, inquisitive and expressive and somewhat almond-shaped. The tail is of moderate length, beautifully plumed, hanging low when at rest and curving gracefully at a moderate height when in action. Height is 22 to 24 inches for bitches and 24 to 26 inches for dogs. The length from shoulder to hindquarters should be equal to the height, giving the Groenendael a square, compact appearance when viewed from the side; the topline is straight without the slope characteristic of other shepherd breeds. The Groenendael has a particularly elegant gait with legs moving parallel to its centre line, when not actually under command it tends to move in a circle rather than a straight line. The Groenendael is essentially a working dog and anything that would detract from the working qualities of the dog should be considered a fault. Character and temperament are outstandingly good and the Groenendael is equally at home as a guard dog or as a household companion. [Copyright

THE BERNESE MOUNTAIN DOG

THE NAME SYNONYMOUS WITH BERNESE MT: DOGS

Ch Duntiblae Dark Protector

CC and BOB Crufts 1986

Owned and bred by Diana and Graham Cochrane

We are not showing Bernese today as we have the privilege of judging Rough Collies here instead.

We have had a good year in the show ring and with our breeding, and above all have enjoyed our dogs for themselves.

We intend to continue with our line breeding in the way we always have, ie with love and caring concern, and are looking forward to an exciting year in 1987.

We freely offer help and advice from our 15 years experience in the breed to all lovers of these wonderful dogs.

Description of the Bernese Mountain Dog

The Bernese Mountain Dog was originally a Swiss draught dog noted for its beauty and good temperament; aggressiveness was not tolerated. It is hardy and needs little care in grooming. Colours are jet black with rich reddish-brown on the cheeks, over the eyes and on all four legs and chest. Dogs are 25 to 27½ inches at the withers. Bitches 26 to 26½ inches. The overall appearance is that of a strong working dog, active, alert, well-boned and of a striking colour. Bernese Mountain Dogs are not noisy, are friendly and compatible with other dogs and do not need a great deal of exercise, although they are keen watchdogs.

Description of the Border Collie

The Border Collie is renowned in canine circles and on farms throughout the world as a hard working herder. Given Challenge Certificates by the Kennel Club in 1982 the working side of the Border Collie in Sheepdog Trials is controlled by the International Sheepdog Society whose records of pedigrees go further back than those of the Kennel Club. Generally coloured black and white, a variety of colours are permissible. A graceful, perfectly balanced dog conveying the impression that it is capable of great endurance. It is neither nervous nor aggressive but keen and alert, responsive and highly intelligent. When moving it has a smooth and tireless gait with a minimum lift of its feet giving the impression of great strength and speed. Dogs are about 53 cms (21 ins) high, bitches slightly less.

THE BOXER

MARBELTON BOXERS

1986 saw this kennel win their sixth best of breed at Crufts, this time with Ch Marbelton Dressed to Kill. (Judge Mr Reg Hill). Dressed to Kill was top boxer, top working, and third top dog all breeds for 1985. In the same year Marbelton was top kennel and also top breeders. Ch Marbelton Drunken Duncan, Dressed to Kill's son, was the winner of the Cotswold Boxer Clubs dog of the year contest for 1986. Ch Marbelton Dressed to Kill will not be competing at Crufts 1987 as his owner is judging the breed.

Description of the Boxer

Boxers have so much that is pleasing that they have become one of the most popular breeds. Hardy and robust, and powerful within a moderate compass, they are also alert and active. The breed was started about the last decade of the nineteenth century in the neighbourhood of Munich, the first having been shown in 1895. Some of the old-fashioned bull-baiting dogs seem to have survived in Germany, and these, crossed with native breeds, gave us the Boxer, a dog that has now a distinct individuality and pleasing appearance. The colours are fawn or brindle and fawn, with white markings. Height 21 to 24 inches at shoulder, average weight 62 to 66 lb. The body viewed from the side should be square, muscular and lean, with deep chest, well sprung ribs and clean sloping shoulders. The neck round, of some length, gracefully arched and free from dewlap. The back must be short, broad, and strongly muscular. A characteristic of the Boxer is the pronounced stop, giving the head a distinctive appearance. Head must not be too broad, cheeks well developed and free from bumpiness, muzzle deep and broad with a dark mask. Length of muzzle one-third of total length of head. When looking alert, wrinkles show on forehead. Slight wrinkles on face reach from base of nose downwards. The tip of the nose lies somewhat higher than the root. Eyes dark. Tail docked. Boxers are faithful, fearless and highly intelligent dogs.

Description of the Briard

The Briard is a French breed of rugged appearance, muscular yet supple, well proportioned, gay and lively. He has a strong head with well defined stop exactly mid-way in the length of the head. The hair on the head should form a moustache, beard and eyebrows which slightly veil the eyes. The muzzle is neither narrow nor pointed with large, black, square nose no matter what colour the dog. The forehead is slightly rounded and the skull rectangular in shape. He has strong teeth. Horizontally placed eyes, well opened and rather large, not oblique. The eyes are dark brown, intelligent and gentle in expression. The ears are set high and should not lie too flat against the side of the head and should be fairly short. The ears should be equal to, or slightly less than half the length of the head and covered with long hair. The neck is well muscled and arching, strong and carried well away from the shoulders. The forequarters are well angulated and laid back with well muscled forelegs and strong bone structure. His back should be firm and level, the chest broad and well let-down, there should be a very slight slope at the croup. The hindquarters are well angulated and hocks set not too low, but the legs should not be quite vertical. Double dew-claws on the hind legs are of the utmost importance.

Description of the Bullmastiff

Long before there was so much talk about police dogs, Bullmastiffs had been prized by English gamekeepers as being readily trained to protect their masters or track poachers. Though various crosses have been used, the genuine breed was made originally from the Mastiff and Bulldog, the greater proportion of the blood being derived from the former. Breeders endeavour to produce a powerful, symmetrical animal, well-knit and active, courageous and docile, standing 25 inches to 27 inches at shoulder and weighing from 110 lb to 130 lb for dogs, bitches from 24 inches to 26 inches and 90 lb to 101 lb. Coat is short and dense, colour any shade of fawn or brindle. Dark mask is essential. The head is large and square, with fair wrinkle. The circumference of the skull may almost equal the height. The skull should be broad, forehead flat, and cheeks well developed. Ears V-shaped or folded back, set wide apart and high, level with the occiput. Eyes dark and of medium size, with furrow between. Muzzle deep and broad and short. Flews not too pendulous. Moderate stop. Neck muscular, moderate length and slightly arched. Chest wide and deep. Ribs arched, back short. Forelegs straight, with good bone. Hocks moderately bent. [Copyright

Description of the Smooth Collie

The Smooth Collie differs from the Rough variety only in coat, which should be hard, dense and quite smooth. This attractive dog has never been so popular with the general public as the Rough Collie but it has always had a steady following in this country and the United States. Through its long and intimate association with man the Collie has acquired special characteristics and a high degree of intelligence. The specialised and selective breeding of many centuries has developed physical characteristics in the various breeds of sheepdogs which enable them to endure varying conditions, for example, the degree of protection given by the coat of the several varieties of sheepdog has become in some measure comparable to the protection given by that of the fleece of his charges. The Rough Collie is well adapted to face the rigours of the Highland winter, whilst the rain-shedding coat of the Smooth Collie gives ample protection to the dog against the milder but wetter Lowland climate.

Description of the Dobermann

The Dobermann is a dog of medium size with a well set muscular body, a proud carriage and a bold alert temperament. His form is compact, and owing to his build is capable of great speed. His expression is intelligent and shows firmness of character, loyalty and obedience. The head is long and clean cut, and the upper part should be as flat as possible and free from wrinkle. The top of the skull is flat, with a slight stop; the eyes are almond-shaped, moderately deep set, with a keen expression; the ears are set on high, as small as possible, erect or dropped. The neck is fairly long and lean and proportionate to the whole shape of the dog. The ideal height at withers males 27" females 25½" considerable deviation from this ideal to be discouraged. Ribs are deep and well sprung; legs are perfectly straight, muscled and sinewy, with round bone, proportionate to body structure. The coat is smooth, short, hard, thick, and close lying, and the colours are black, brown, blue or fawn. The markings are rust red, sharply defined, and appearing above each eye and on the muzzle, throat and forechest and all legs and feet, and below the tail. [Copyright

Description of the German Shepherd Dog (Alsatian)

The German Shepherd Dog has become one of the most popular breeds, not only in this country but also across the world. It is essentially a working dog. The ideal height for dogs is 25 inches at the shoulder, and 23 for bitches. Immense importance is attached to movement, which is said to be so smooth that a glass of water could be carried on the back without a drop being spilt. Such a gait is only possible with well-placed shoulders and good proportions between the other parts of the body. The length of the body from point of breastbone to buttocks should be slightly greater than height at shoulder. The sides are relatively flat, the necessary heart and lung room coming from the depth of the brisket. The head is long, lean and clean-cut, broad at the back of the skull and tapering to the nose. The ears, which are broad at the base and pointed at the tips, are carried erect. Eyes should be almond-shaped and dark. Legs perfectly straight with plenty of bone. Colour is not in itself important, but white or near-white is not acceptable. [Copyright

Description of the Great Dane

In spite of his remarkable size and strength, the Great Dane should be elegantly built. "Elegance of outline and grace of form are most essential", says the standard, and size is also necessary. An adult dog should not be less than 30 inches in height, and the minimum weight is 120 lb. Bitches may be 2 inches and 20 lb less. The beauty of the dog is greatly enhanced by an upright carriage of the head and neck, and the expressions must be alert, almost to the point of fierceness. If properly trained when young they are most tractable. The head is long with strong jaws and, as the muzzle is broad and the skull comparatively narrow, the head seems to be of equal breadth right down. A fair measurement from tip of nose to back of occiput is 13 inches. Ears should be small, set on high, and carried slightly erect with the tips dropping. The long neck should be well arched and free from loose skin; forelegs straight, with big bone and rounded feet, plenty of muscle on the hindquarters; stifles and hocks well bent; ribs deep and well sprung. Colours are brindles, fawns, blues, blacks and harlequins. Some importance is attached to colour in the judging ring. A harlequin should preferably have black patches on a pure white underground, although blue patches are permitted, but no other colour. These patches, which are usually fairly big, are of irregular shape. [Copyright

Description of the Hungarian Puli

The Hungarian Puli has been used to help Hungarian sheep herders for more than 1 000 years and is an accomplished sheepdog. Today it tends to be used more as a guard for livestock and the home and is an excellent worker. Of medium size the Puli is nimble and extremely intelligent and in relation to its size is sturdy and muscular and should have good bones. Is not easy to assess on visual examination since it should be well covered on maturity with a long, profuse, corded coat. Long hair over-shadows the eyes like an umbrella and viewed from the side the dog must present a square figure. Colours are black, rusty-black, various shades of grey, white and apricot. The coat should be of the correct proportion of top and under coat which creates a naturally desired narrow cord which should be less inclined to become matted. Some dogs grow a coat to the floor. A combed coat is as undesirable as a neglected one. Pulis have done well in America where they were introduced in 1936. They are noted for their trainability, alertness and quick response which makes them ideal working dogs and pets.

THE MASTIFF

Crufts Winner 1986

Ch Bulliff Walkeska of Appollon

Date of Birth: 13 October 1983

Sire: Bulliff Ranger of Bonners × Bulliff Saith

Bitch CC and Best of Breed.

This win gained Walkeska the title of Champion.

Thank you Chris and Lyn Say for the wonderful times "Vashti" has given us—only two years old and already CC and Best of Breed at Paignton 1985, and Crufts 1986. Also CC at Welsh Kennel Club 1985. Reserve CC's at Bournemouth and Birmingham 1985.

What a super litter—congratulations to brother Warrior, 1985 Crufts Best of Breed and sister Wellingtonia, doing well this year.

Our beautiful girl is now taking time out for motherhood and keeping up the Bulliff tradition.

Description of the Mastiff

Although one of the oldest and noblest of breeds, the Mastiff has never been a "popular" breed. After the last war the breed was found to be almost extinct and the members of the Old English Mastiff Club had the difficult task of finding specimens to breed from. The effort has been successful, and it is satisfactory to know that the numbers are once more increasing. The Romans found these dogs in England and were so impressed with their size and power that they sent many to Rome to fight with the wild beasts in the amphitheatre. Presumably they were more active than those we know, as the Forest Laws forbade them being kept in the neighbourhood of forests unless some of the toes of the front feet were removed. In the reign of Queen Elizabeth they were used for baiting lions, bears and bulls—four of them being loosed against a lion and three against a bear. The modern dog is large, massive, powerful and symmetrical and, at his best, he can move with unexpected freedom. The head is broad and looks almost square, the lips are deep and pendulous and the ears small and thin. The chest is broad, causing the forelegs to be set wide apart and the body is extremely powerful. Great size is desirable as long as there is quality as well. Their intelligence and fidelity in alliance with their great strength make them ideal guards, which duties they take with great seriousness.

WHAT
DOG?

There's no doubt it must be every owners dream to have an original oil painting of their dog hanging over the mantlepiece or displayed majestically in the hallway. Not only would it enrich any home, but stand as a great artistic tribute to your beloved pet, whether for yourself or as a gift for someone special.

As you can see from this picture, Katrina has an exceptional talent for portraiture, capturing not only the likeness, but also the unique character of each dog.

Because she believes in providing a wholly personal service, Katrina will discuss your individual needs with you, and if necessary come and take her own reference photographs. Just simply ring her for a chat to find out more details and discuss the possibilities for your masterpiece.

You can see more of her paintings here at Crufts '87. So stroll along to Stand 2B12 and judge for yourself.

Description of the Newfoundland

The Newfoundland in his native country, was of aquatic habits, as much at home in the water as on land, and as he was also used for draught purposes, he is built on sturdy lines, giving the impression of possessing great strength and activity. He should move freely on his legs with the body swung loosely between them, so that a slight roll in gait should not be objectionable. Bone massive throughout, but not to give a heavy, inactive appearance. The chest is deep and fairly broad. Even his tail has a good deal of power in it, and serves as a rudder when he is swimming. When the dog is not excited the stem hangs downwards, curving slightly at the end, but when he is in motion it is carried higher. The small pendent ears serve to protect the orifices from water. The coat is flat and dense and of a coarsish texture and oily nature. Many lives have been saved by Newfoundlands, and some have been awarded the medal of the Royal Humane Society. The head is impressive, being broad and massive, with the occiput bone well developed. The muzzle is short, clean-cut and rather square in shape. At one time white and blacks were much favoured, probably on account of the publicity given to that colour by Landseer in his painting. It is a handsome dog, kindly and affectionate in nature, and much devoted to its owners.

Description of the Norwegian Buhund

The Norwegian Buhund is the general farm dog of Norway, its duties including both guarding and shepherding. The general appearance should be that of an active working dog with good bone and rib, strong and muscular, yet free from any suggestion of coarseness or exaggeration. A typical "Spitz", the Buhund has a wedge shaped head, dark almond eyes, erect mobile ears, giving an alert expression. Feet are small and oval and the tail high set, carried curled over the back, not too much to one side. Little importance is attached to colour, self-colours are preferred and any markings must be symmetrical. Wheaten in its various shades is the most usual, but wolf-sable, red (provided it is not a Finnish Spitz red), all with or without a black mask, and black are all equally acceptable. The coat is double, a soft woolly undercoat and harsh top hair. Ideal height is around 17½ inches (45 cms) for dogs, bitches slightly smaller. The Buhund has a great sense of property and is devoted to his owners, being polite but reserved with strangers. He is an excellent house dog and being a shepherd dog is easily trained and makes a delightful companion. [Copyright

Description of the Old English Sheepdog

The dogs are attractive in their coats of grey, grizzle, blue or blue-merle, with or without white markings. Besides that, they are strong, hardy, and as active as kittens, and their intelligence is of the highest order. They are symmetrically built, being free from legginess, and there is a peculiar elasticity in their gallop. The skull, which is rather square, affords plenty of brain capacity. The jaw is fairly long, strong and square, and there is a stop between the eyes. A long narrow head is regarded as a deformity. Eyes may be either dark colour or wall-eyed. Ears small and carried flat by the side of the head. Forelegs should have plenty of bone, and should be dead straight. Feet small and round. Some puppies are born tailless, but most require docking, which should be done within four days of birth. The neck is fairly long and gracefully arched. Body rather short and compact; ribs well sprung; brisket deep; loins stout and slightly arched, with hindquarters round and muscular. The profuse coat is of hard texture, not straight, but shaggy and free from curl.

Description of the Pyrenean Mountain Dog

The Pyrenean Mountain Dog is one of the oldest breeds and it is said that the breed can be traced back to 1400 B.C. In addition to its original age-old position as a shepherd dog, the Pyrenean has been used for centuries as a guard and watchdog, and for this purpose, he has proven ideal. He is a serious dog, dependable and docile, known for his courage, fidelity and devotion. The breed became generally known in this country about 1932, and has steadily increased in popularity since. Pyreneans should be of immense size, minimum height at the shoulder 26 inches bitches and 28 inches for dogs. The weight of a bitch at least 90 lb and for dogs 110 lb. The expression should be keen and intelligent yet kind. Soundness should be of the greatest importance, the gait is distinctive and is usually described as rolling and ambling. The eyes should be of rich dark brown colour, of medium size, and set obliquely. The tail should be of good length, well plumed and carried low when at rest and high over the back when alert. The colour should be white or mainly white with patches of badger, wolf-grey or pale-yellow.

Description of the Rottweiler

The Rottweiler is an ancient breed of dog, believed to have been introduced into Germany by the Romans. Large herds of cattle accompanied the Roman Legions on the march and the herds were tended by cattle dogs. As the herds decreased fewer dogs were needed, and many were left behind. Descendants of these can still be found along the routes the Legions took and the Rottweiler is one example. He is a strongly-built, active dog, easily trained, obedient and extremely faithful, he is naturally dignified and not noisy or excitable. Dogs are 25 inches to 27 inches and bitches 23 inches to 26 inches at the shoulder. The coat should be short, and flat, black in colour with tan or mahogany markings. [Copyright

Description of the St Bernard

Of all the big dogs the St Bernard is one of the noblest, with his massive frame, huge bone and big head. The breed has been kept at the Hospice on the Great St Bernard Pass for several centuries, but there is no doubt that it has changed considerably in character. The expression should be benevolent and kindly. The head is very massive, the circumference of the skull being more than double the length. From the top to the tip of the nose it is moderately short, and the muzzle is square. The lips are deep; the eyes rather small and deep set, of dark colour and not too close together. Neck long, muscular and slightly arched, with much dewlap. Chest wide and deep; loins slightly arched, wide and very muscular. Forelegs perfectly straight, with huge bone, and the hindlegs should not be cow-hocked. Feet large and compact. The minimum height of a dog should be 31 inches, but the taller ones are preferred provided they are well proportioned. In the rough variety the coat should be dense and flat, rather fuller round the neck, and some feathering on the thighs. The colours may be red, orange, various shades of brindle, or white with patches on the body. The muzzle, the blaze up the face, collar round neck, chest, forelegs, feet and end of tail—white. Description of the Samoyed

As handsome a dog as one could wish to see, with his compact form of thick, brilliant white coat. Biscuit or cream is permissible. Being a working dog the Samoyed needs to be strong and active, and he is usually so well put together that every movement is instinct with grace. In his native land he acts as guard, herd or hunter, and more occasionally is put to draught uses. Teams have done excellently in some of the Arctic or Antarctic expeditions. With these multifarious duties in view, breeders aim at producing an animal standing about 21 inches at shoulder, weighing up to 55 lb for males and 45 lb for bitches, with a back of medium length, and broad and muscular. The stout, straight and muscular legs should be long enough to admit of great depth and breadth of chest, but not so long as to constitute a weakness. Hindquarters strongly developed, stifles well bent. Broad flat skull. Muzzle of medium length and tapering foreface. Erect ears. Dark eyes. Black nose preferred, but brown or flesh-colour permitted. Thick soft undercoat, through which grow the harsh hairs constituting the outer coat.

Description of the Shetland Sheepdog

The Shetland crofter's one-time small, hardy, herding and general utility dog has gradually evolved into a handsome breed of Collie-like general appearance though differences of proportion, expression and size (the ideal height is 14 inches for a bitch, 14½ inches for a dog) give the Shetland Sheepdog a distinction of his own. Any of the Collie colours are admissible and the outer coat should be long and harsh while the undercoat is soft and close. The long, low-set tail is carried down with a slight upward sweep; the flat skull and cheeks merge smoothly into a well-rounded muzzle of equal length to the skull. The slight but definite stop, the almond-shaped, obliquely placed eyes and the high-set, semi-erect ears contribute to the characteristically alert yet sweet expression. The neck should be long and arched, the body strong and well-proportioned; the shoulders and hindquarters sufficiently angulated. The general appearance is that of an active, racy, graceful dog of intelligence and great beauty. This and the extremely tractable character retained from his sheepdog ancestry have kept the 'Sheltie' among one of the most popular breeds in Britain for several years. He is also notably successful at Obedience work.

Description of the Swedish Vallhund

The Swedish Vallhund is a delightful attractive little dog that is cousin to the Corgi but taller on the leg. They are the Cattle Herding Dogs of Sweden. Highly intelligent and naturally very obedient. Their appearance and expression should show a watchful, alert and energetic dog, which should be friendly and eager to please. The head should be rather long and clean cut blunt wedge with an almost flat skull. A dark mask is acceptable, but a well defined mask is highly desirable, with lighter hair around the eyes, on the muzzle and under the throat, giving a distinct contrast to the upper mask. Dark eyes of medium size, and oval. Medium sized pointed, pricked ears. Neck strongly muscled with good reach. Level topline, well muscled with short strong loin, chest long with good depth, reaching 2/5th of the length of fore-arm. Harness markings should be defined. Hindquarters well angulated with strongly muscled thighs. Height to length ratio 2 to 3. Movement should be free and active, forelegs moving well forward, without too much lift in unison with powerful thrusting hind action. The coat is medium length, harsh, close and tight topcoat, undercoat soft and woolly. Most in this country are varying shades of grey sable, but there are a few red sables. Weight is from 25lb to 35lb, height should be 12" to 13½" (31cm to 35cm). [Copyright

Description of the Welsh Corgi (Cardigan)

The Cardigan differs the most in appearance from the Pembroke Welsh Corgi in having a long tail, though there are other differences. His total length from nose to end of tail is about 36 inches. In general appearance he is a small dog standing on very short legs, which are slightly bowed. The head is a foxy shape, the skull being fairly wide and flat between the ears and tapering towards the eyes, above which it should be slightly domed. The muzzle should measure about 3 inches in length. The eyes, which are of medium size and preferably dark in colour, have a sharp and watchful expression. The ears are rather large, carried erect, and set moderately wide at the base. The neck is muscular and well developed. The body is fairly long and strong, with a deep brisket, well sprung ribs and clearly defined waist. The feet are rather round and well padded and are rather large. The tail is of moderate length and set in a line with the body, not curled over the back. The coat is short or medium and of hard texture. Any colour except pure white is recognised. The height should be as near as possible to 12 inches at the shoulder, and the weight of dogs from 22 lb to 26 lb; bitches 2 lb less.

Description of the Welsh Corgi (Pembroke)

Which type of Corgi one prefers is purely a matter of taste, both being most attractive little dogs. The name is said to have been derived from Gi or Ci, a dog; and Cor, a dwarf. They are the cattle dogs of South Wales, and are said to make very hardy and intelligent companions. In the Pembroke type we have a foxy head with a wide skull between the ears, which are carried erectly and point outwards. The jaw is of medium length, rather inclined to be snipy. Teeth level and square, rather large for the size of the dog. Eyes well set, round, and of medium size, hazel in colour. The neck is fairly long and strong. The chest broad and deep and well down between the forelegs. The body is of medium length. The tail is short. The ribs are well sprung and the hindquarters strong and flexible. The legs are short and as straight as possible, with feet oval and strong. The coat is of medium length and dense, the colour being red or red and white, or sable, or sable with white, or black and tan with white. The approval weight is from 18 lb to 24 lb, and the height should not exceed 12 inches at the shoulder.

Description of the Australian Cattle Dog

Believed to have been produced from a Collie about 1840. They are required to round-up, drive and pen cattle and to do so must be rugged, very agile, highly intelligent. They are highly proficient at their work. They are about 18-20 inches (46-51 cms) high at the shoulder and weigh between 33 and 40 lbs when grown. Colours are blue, blue mottled with or without black markings, but the head can have black and tan markings. A tan undercoat is allowed, provided it does not show through the blue outer coat. In red speckled dogs, the colour is even, including the undercoat which must not be cream or white. Overall, a loyal, protective dog naturally suspicious of strangers and highly trainable.

Judge: Mrs V. HALL

Chief Obedience Steward: Mr. N. L. Hills

Judging starts at 9.00 am

Ground Level

The dogs entitled to compete for these Championship Competitions are those which have been awarded Kennel Club Obedience Certificates during 1986.

The First Prize winner in each Championship will be entitled to be described as Obedience Champion. As all competing dogs must have won at least one Obedience Certificate, the Championship will be the equivalent of two Obedience Certificates.

The tests for the Championships are those required for Class "C" and if the winning dog or bitch has lost more than 10 points out of the 300 the Championship Award must be withheld. The Obedience Championships will be held in accordance with the Obedience Regulations in force at the time of publication of the Schedule.

Would all Competitors please note the following Kennel Club regulations:

- (a) No bitch in season shall be allowed to compete in Obedience Classes.
- (b) No person shall carry out punitive correction or harsh handling of a dog at any time whilst within the boundaries of the Show.
- (c) A draw for the running order in Championship Class C will be conducted by the Kennel Club and Exhibitors notified accordingly.

Prize Money: First £30, Second £20, Third £15 donated by Metal Box plc

The following Challenge Cups are offered for the Obedience Championships:

The Pedigree Chum Challenge Cup, presented by Pedigree Petfoods for the winner of the Obedience Championship in Dogs.

The Pedigree Chum Challenge Cup, presented by Pedigree Petfoods for the winner of the Obedience Championship in Bitches.

These are Perpetual Challenge Cups, and Pedigree Petfoods will present a memento each year to commemorate the wins.

DESCRIPTION OF EXERCISES FOR CLASS "C" OBEDIENCE

CLASS "C"

One command, by word or signal, except in Test 2 where an extra command may be simultaneous command and signal. Extra commands or signals must be penalised.

1. Heel Work. The dog shall be required to walk at heel free, and also be tested at fast and slow pace. At some time during this test, at the discretion of the judge, the dog shall be required, whilst walking to heel at normal pace, to be left at the Stand, Sit and Down in any order (the order to be the same for each dog) as and when directed by the judge. The handler shall continue forward alone, without hesitation, and continue as directed by the judge until he reaches his dog when both shall continue forward together until halted. Heel work may include left about turns and figure-of-eight at normal and/or slow pace, 60 points; 2. Send Away, Drop and Recall. On command of judge to handler, dog to be sent away in direction indicated by judge. After the dog has been dropped, handler will call the dog to heel whilst walking where directed by judge and both will continue forward. No obstacle to be placed in path of dog. Simultaneous command and signal is permitted but as soon as the dog leaves the handler the arm must be dropped. (N.B. an extra command may be simultaneous command and signal, but an extra command must be penalised), 40 points; 3. Retrieve Any One Article provided by the judge but which must not be in any manner injurious to the dog (definitely excluding food or glass). The article to be picked up easily by any breed of dog in that class and to be clearly visible to the dog. A separate similar article to be used for each dog. Test commences following judge or steward's 'last command' to handler, 30 points; 4. Distant Control. Dog to Sit, Stand and Down at a marked place not less than ten paces from handler, in any order on command from judge to handler. Six instructions to be given in the same order for each dog. Excessive movement, i.e. more than the length of the dog, in any direction by the dog, having regard to its size, will be penalised. The dog shall start the exercise with its front feet behind a designated point. No penalty for excessive movement in a forward direction shall be imposed until the back legs of the dog pass the designated point, 50 points; 5. Sit Two Minutes, handler out of sight, 20 points; 6. Down Ten Minutes, handler out of sight, 50 points; 7. Scent Discrimination. Judge's scent on piece of marked cloth. Neutral and decoy cloths to be provided by the Show Executive. The judge shall not place his cloth in the ring himself, but it shall be placed by a steward. A separate similar piece to be used for each dog and the total number of separate similar pieces of cloth from which the dog shall discriminate shall not exceed ten. If a dog fetches or fouls a wrong article this must be replaced by a fresh article. The method of taking scent shall be at the handler's discretion but shall not require the judge to place his hand on or lean towards the dog. A separate similar piece of cloth approximately 6 in. by 6 in. but not more than 10 in. by 10 in. shall be available to be used for giving each dog the scent. Judges should use a scent decoy or decoys, 50 points. Total 300 points.
